We dedicate this book to our teachers at Oberlin, Muhlenberg, Harvard, and the University of Pennsylvania who kindled and sustained our interest in American politics and government and instilled in us the desire to pass their wisdom on to a new generation.

About the Authors

Marc Landy is Professor of Political Science at Boston College and Faculty Chair of the Irish Institute. He has a B.A. from Oberlin College and a Ph.D. in Government from Harvard University. He is coauthor with Sidney Milkis of Presidential Greatness (2000) and an author of The Environmental Protection Agency from Nixon to Clinton: Asking the Wrong Questions (1994). He is an editor of Seeking the Center: Politics and Policymaking at the New Century (2001) and The New Politics of Public Policy (1995). In addition to teaching undergraduate and graduate students, he regularly teaches public officials from Ireland and Northern Ireland about American politics through a series of executive programs run by the Irish Institute. He also teaches summer courses at the Monteverde Institute in Costa Rica. His recent articles include "The Bush Presidency after 9/11: Shifting the Kaleidoscope" in the inaugural issue of the e-journal Forum; "Local Government and Environmental Policy" in Dilemmas of Scale in American Federal Democracy, ed. Martha Derthick (1999); and "The Politics of Risk Reform," coauthored with Kyle Dell, in Duke Environmental Law and Policy Forum (fall 1999). During the 2000 presidential campaign, his op-ed articles appeared in the Boston Globe and New York Newsday, and he appeared on a wide variety of radio and television news programs.

Sidney M. Milkis is the James Hart Professor of Politics and the Codirector of the American Political Development Program at the Miller Center of Public Affairs at the University of Virginia. He has a B.A. from Muhlenberg College and a Ph.D. in Political Science from the University of Pennsylvania. His books include The President and the Parties: The Transformation of the American Party System since the New Deal (1993); Political Parties and Constitutional Government: Remaking American Democracy (1999); Presidential Greatness (2000), coauthored with Marc Landy; and The American Presidency: Origins and Developments, 1776–2002 (2003), 4th edition, coauthored with Michael Nelson. He is the coeditor, with Jerome Mileur, of three volumes on twentieth-century political reform: Progressivism and the New Democracy (1999); The New Deal and the Triumph of Liberalism (2002); The Great Society and the Rights Revolution (forthcoming). His articles on American government and political history have appeared in Political Science Quarterly, Studies in American Political Development, Journal of Policy History, and several edited volumes. In addition to teaching graduate and undergraduate students, he regularly gives public lectures on American politics and participates in programs that teach political history to school superintendents and high school teachers.
