To my wife, Janet: Thank you for the love, the patience, and the time I needed to complete this book (and every other book I have worked on). Without your love and wisdom, my life would be a shadow of what it is now. You are everything to me. To my son, Christopher: Every experience I have had or will have will never compare with the first time I held you in my arms. Everyday, I revel in the miracle that you are.
—John Carnell

This book is dedicated to my secondary school English teacher, Neville McGraw, for sparking my abiding interest in literature and teaching me the importance of the written word.
