What is TOEIC?

TOEIC® is the acronym of the Test of English for International Communication, an English language test developed by ETS (Educational Testing Service) in the United States following a request from Japanese Ministry of Foreign Trade and Industry. The test was designed specifically to measure the ability of nonnative English speakers to use English in everyday work activities in an international environment. Every year, more than 4.5 million people throughout the world take the TOEIC tests to apply for new positions, obtain credentials, and advance their careers.

2 Standards and Contexts for the TOEIC Questions

TOEIC test questions are based on the ETS quality and fairness standards and drawn from various real-life situations and work settings in an international environment.

All the TOEIC questions should ensure that they

- do not use American English-specific vocabulary, grammar, and idiomatic expressions
- · include various human names of different nationalities equally
- avoid situations which are only familiar to test takers from specific cultures or which are only appropriate for specific jobs and careers
- are free of racial, ethnic, gender, socioeconomic, and other forms of bias
- present listening materials recorded in various English accents (i.e. American, Canadian, British, Australian, and New Zealand accents)

All the TOEIC questions are taken from the following contexts:

Corporate Development - research, product development

Dining Out - business and informal lunches, banquets, receptions, restaurant reservations

Entertainment - cinema, theater, music, art, exhibitions, museums, media

Finance and Budgeting - banking, investments, taxes, accounting, billing

General Business - contracts, negotiations, mergers, marketing, sales, warranties, business planning, conferences, labor relations

Health - medical insurance, visiting doctors, dentists, clinics, hospitals

Housing / Corporate Property - construction, specifications, buying and renting, electric and gas services Manufacturing - assembly lines, plant management, quality control

Offices - board meetings, committees, letters, memoranda, telephone, fax and e-mail messages, office equipment and furniture, office procedures

Personnel/Human Resources - recruiting, hiring, retiring, salaries, promotions, job applications, job advertisements, pensions, awards

Purchasing - shopping, ordering supplies, shipping, invoices

Technical Areas - electronics, technology, computers, laboratories and related equipment, technical specifications

Travel - trains, airplanes, taxis, buses, ships, ferries, tickets, schedules, station and airport announcements, car rentals, hotels, reservations, delays and cancellations
